WEBINAR INFORMATION

PRESENTED BY: MICHAEL GWYTHYER

The Standards for RTOs place a responsibility on all trainers and assessors to maintain their industry subject matter expertise along with their vocational capability. While formalised professional development contributes to this process, involvement in industry forums, projects and communities of practice provide rich opportunities for building currency.

Reflective thinking from these experiences should promote new opportunities for innovative approaches to industry training that contribute to continuous improvement for the RTO and trainers/assessors alike.

Join Mick Gwyther for this must-see webinar to unpack the differences between industry and vocational competency, and explore strategies to maintain and demonstrate your currency.
